DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-24, 27, drawn to a hydrocarbyldithiomethyl compound, classified in class 554, subclass 6.
- II. Claims 25-27, drawn to a method for modifying a nucleoside, classified in class 536, subclass 23.1.
- III. Claims 28-31, drawn to a method of sequencing, classified in class 435, subclass 91.1.
- IV. Claims 32-36, drawn to method of sequencing, classified in class 435, subclass 91.1.
- V. Claims 38-39, drawn to a support, classified in class 536, subclass 4.1.
- VI. Claims 40-44, drawn to a method of synthesizing, classified in class 536, subclass 25.3.
- VII. Claims 45-49, drawn to a method of synthesizing, classified in class 536, subclass 25.3.
- VIII. Claims 50-54, drawn to a method of sequencing using primer array, classified in class 435, subclass 91.1.
- IX. Claims 55-57, drawn to a method of synthesizing, classified in class 536, subclass 25.3.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-IX are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. See MPEP § 806.05(h). In the instant case the compound of group I can be used for the method of group II or the methods of sequencing or synthesizing.

Inventions III, IV, and VIII are directed to related methods. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, they have different design since they comprise different steps.

Inventions V, VI, IX are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product. See MPEP § 806.05(h). In the instant case the support of group V can be used for the methods of group VI or IX for example.

Inventions VI, VII, IX are directed to related processes. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, they have different design since they comprise different steps.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.
